Description

A large Cobridge, poppy and ice pattern, hand painted vase converted into a table lamp on a perspex base, 12" high One of Cobridge Pottery's most popular patterns, designed by artist Anita Harris, leading designer at Cobridge, Moorcroft & her own studio

- Beautiful, lively, naturalistic pattern injecting the wildflower landscape into the interior. - Part of a collection. Each vase has its own idyosyncracies and an impressionistic quality diffusing and softening the poppies and ice into the sky blue background. - Marked JW © 03 AH underneath - Juxtaposes with period interiors and blends into modern and contemporary schemes. - The blue, red, green and titanium white palette is warm, harmonizing with most color schemes. - The conversion is recent so it conforms to UK electrical standards. - Provenance: Private Collection. Collected for the subtle differences of the painting on each vase reflecting the hand of different artists or a different interpretation by the same artist. - Can be sold as a collection or individually.
