Description

This characterful set of period chairs exudes charm. The 19th century, linen upholstery gives them a fresh, Classic appearance which would work in period and contemporary interiors. They are sturdy and suitable for regular use. They came from the same property as a set of eight side chairs which are upholstered in the same linen and braid and have the same back height. Together they make a set of 14 chairs.

The rectangular backs with arched tops and joined to the seats with oak uprights. The square seats supported by fishtail carved front legs on paw feet and plain back legs joined by a shaped 'H' stretcher. Upholstered in 19th century white linen faced with a matching gimp. Excellent original mellow color and patina.
